Some Blue on the Horizon?

Dear Friends,

It's amazing how a few days in our turbulent and fast paced times can have a serious impact on the mood or feeling of a nation and beyond. The US Midterm Elections held on November 8 have had just such an impact. Whether it lasts or not, one thing is clear: young people, women and independents came out in droves to reject the politics of authoritarianism. Case in point: none of the 2020 Presidential Election "deniers" (who ran for important state office (governor or secretary of state) and hinted or openly promised to manipulate election results in the future) won.

These developments, together with the epic pro-democracy example Ukraine and its people are setting every day, raise hope for the future of global democracy (which has been a bit tattered of late). My bottom line? Cautious optimism and a lot of hard work are needed to right the somewhat unmoored ship of democracy both in the US and elsewhere. I'm currently writing an article for Diplomatic Courier on this topic which I will share with you next month.

Meanwhile, this month, you can partake of the following resources:

- My latest article titled "You Can't Fight the Climate Emergency without Enlightened Responsible Leadership" written for Diplomatic Courier's COP27 Book-azine COP 27: A Sustainability Roadmap published in conjunction with the global climate talks in Sharm El Sheikh, Egypt
- I'm truly honored to speak at my first Financial Times conference on December 6th on a panel about "How Should the Board be Championing AI?" for the FT's inaugural "AI Transformation Summit" - check here for more information and do let me know if you want to attend so I can provide you with the speaker discount
- On November 30th, I will be part of an exciting all female panel titled "WomanVerse" to chat and share our experiences in the tech world for the Centre for Artificial Intelligence of Singapore for up and coming generations of women in Asia and beyond. Check out the details here.
- On December 1, 2022, my good friend Augusto Leiva, CEO & Founder of Comisuras, will hold a live "Masterclass" with me in Spanish on the topic of "Megatendencias, Ciber-Seguridad y el Riesgo Reputacional" - it will take place at 10am Eastern, 11am Atlantic, and 4:00pm CES/Spain
- On December 15, 2022, I'll be giving a keynote at "Metaverse Safety Week" - find out more about it here

Stay well, stay safe & stay hopeful through the turbulence.

How should the board be championing AI?

Unlocking AI's transformative potential while ensuring trust through responsible AI has become a top-of-mind issue for boards and executive teams. Leadership must ensure that any AI adoption has a clear return on investment, and is consistent with boards' fiduciary duties.

- How can boards and executives develop capabilities that best leverage the impact of this revolutionary technology, while probing for possible risks and ethical issues that may arise from AI deployment?
- In which key ways can boards engage the workforce and educate the organisation on the value of AI?
- How can boards support the delivery of AI-driven job augmentation?
