Hello Friends,

I am thrilled to report that we had our official Governing Pandora launch party in New York City on February 17th, 2026 at

Microsoft's Garage in Soho (check out this LinkedIn Post with photos) I am deeply grateful to my dear friends Alison Taylor, who fireside chatted with me, and Yorke Rhodes III who was the host with the most and to all the lovely friends, colleagues and family who showed up 🙏❤️🙏

BOOK LAUNCH WASHINGTON DC - SAVE THE DATE - APRIL 10th

- As one launch party fades into the rearview mirror, another one is coming up on April 10th in Washington DC co-hosted by the Columbia University Club and Diplomatic Courier at Busboys & Poets - for my friends in the area: please join us from 5:30-7pm by registering here.

Here's the Governing Pandora Book Page containing periodically updated podcasts, excerpts, articles and more relating to the book.

And here are my latest resources:

- Join me in Washington DC April 9-10, 2026 as I speak at the NACD Master Class on Technology & Innovation Oversight on "Balancing Technology Risk, Disruption and Resilience"

"Governing Pandora is a remarkable contribution to the discourse on exponential technologies. In this timely and incisive book, Andrea masterfully employs the metaphor of Pandora's box to illustrate how these technologies have been unleashed into the global landscape—bringing both transformative opportunities and profound challenges. With eloquence and clarity, she asserts that 'exponential technology requires an exponential governance mindset.' Whether you're a policymaker, business leader, or curious reader, Governing Pandora offers invaluable perspectives and practical guidance for navigating the ethical, social, and organizational complexities of our rapidly advancing technological age."—Olajobi Makinwa, chief of intergovernmental relations & Africa and former chief of anti-corruption initiatives, United Nations Global Compact
